UTERINE CATHOLICON.

THE undersigned, having become agents for this invaluable Medicine, would respectfully invite the attention of the afflicted to the gratifying success that has attended its use wherever introduced, and its happy adaptation to the cure of the distressing diseases for which it is offered.

This CATHOLICON is in truth one of the greatest medical discoveries of the Age, and is destined to become identified with the health and happiness of FEMALES.

This declaration is based upon the fact that it will cure more than nine-tenths of a class of very prevalent diseases, known as

FEMALE COMPLAINTS,

and which have heretofore resisted the skill and exertions of the most accomplished Physicians of all countries, to a degree beyond that of almost every other malady to which the human family is heir. It has already received the approbation and liberal patronage of very many prominent members of the Medical Faculty in the United States, willing to abide the truth, and having due regard for the welfare of their patients, and is in every way worthy the confidence of the afflicted as A SUCCESSFUL, SAFE, and CHEAP REMEDY. Of this, additional proof will be found in the pamphlet, to which the attention of Ladies and Practitioners is respectfully invited.

This medicine has never been introduced by empty puffs and misrepresentations, nor is it intended that its present popularity shall be sustained by any means but its merits and the approbation of the public. The CATHOLICON is not a "cure all," but is intended expressly for those complaints incidental to the respectable female whether married or single—Prolapsus Uteri or falling of the Womb, Fluor Albus, or Whites; Chronic Inflammation and Ulceration of the Womb; Incidental Hemorrhage, or Flooding; Painful, Suppressed and Irregular Menstruation, &c., with all their accompanying evils, (Cancer excepted,) no matter how severe, or how long standing.

Pamphlets can be had gratis at our Store.

MARCH OF REFINEMENT.

VERSES FOR THE YEAR 1900.

Tell John to set the kettle on,
I want to take a drive;
I only want to go to Rome,
And shall be back by five.
Tell cook to dress those humming birds
I shot in Mexico;
They've now been killed at least two days,
They'll soon be en pen tant.
And Tom, take you the gold leaf wings,
And start for Spain at three;
I want some Seville oranges
'Twixt dinner time and tea.
I'll round by France, and bring a new
Perpetual motion gong;
To-morrow, with some friends, I go
A hunting in the sun.
The trip I took the other day,
To breakfast in the moon,
Thanks to that awkward Lord Bellair,
He spoiled my new balloon;
For steering through a milky way,
He ran against a star,
And turning round again too soon,
Come jolt against my car.
But Tom, you get the car repaired,
And then let Dan and Dick
Inflate with ten square miles of gas,
I mean to travel quick.
My steam is surely up by now,
Put the high pressure on;
Give me the breath-bag for the way;
—All right—hey—whiz—I'm gone.

The Death Council of the Onidas,

OR, THE SECOND POCAHONTAS.

A True Story of the Early Settlement of New York

BY HENRY R. TRACY.

From the Boston Museum

The first white settler of the town of Westmoreland, in Oneida county, New York, was James Dean, Esq., a native of New England, and a graduate, we believe, of Darmouth College. In his boyhood, he had been sent among the Indians on the Susquehanna river to acquire their language, and it was the intention of his parents that he should become a missionary to carry the Gospel among the dark-skinned sons of the forest.

He became intimately acquainted with the Indian character and customs, so that upon his appointment to the post of Indian Agent, with the rank of Major, after his studies were completed and upon the breaking out of hostilities in 1775, he made himself a favorite with the Oneidas, in whose vicinity he was stationed during the most of the war, and was adopted into the tribe according to an Indian custom, and became a favorite son of the wife of a chief.

In 1787 he found himself settled upon a tract of land two miles square, granted to him by the Oneidas at the close of the war, and on which he had erected a small house which afforded a comfortable shelter for his young wife and two rosy children, one two years old, and the other an infant of a few months.

Major Dean was at this time happily situated, so far as himself or any human intellect could discover to the contrary. The war of the revolution was ended. His beloved country, although she had waded through seas of blood to achieve her independence, was now,—thank God—free: Major Dean was far on the frontiers of civilization, almost in the bosom of a tribe of savages, but they were noble savages—the Oneidas, who alone of the Six Nations had fought under the American standard—and he was adopted son of the tribe. It is true that his young wife often sighed as she thought of the home she had left behind in a pleasant village in the valley of the Connecticut, now celebrated for its onions; but he reminded her of the advantages of their early location in a section of the country, whose fertility would soon attract the enterprising New Englanders to the neighborhood which then seemed so lonely.

Although there were no white residents within many miles; yet the red-skins were friendly. The wife of Skenandoah, the great chief of the Oneidas, was his mother by Indian adoption, and she often visited "the wigwam of her pale faced son," with presents for "his white squaw and little pappooses". They lacked not for soft moccasins, ornamented with beads and quils of the porcupine, dyed scarlet, blue and yellow. And especially did the good Nankoah delight in adorning the person of the oldest "pappoose," after the Indian fashion, with trinkets and gauds which seemed to civilized eyes, more grotesque than comely; and her black eyes sparkled with delight when she saw the little boy toddling about—a miniature brave, lacking only the tattooing and scalplock. She also bestowed upon the family, presents, which in their circumstances were more valuable to them. Their larder never lacked for game, even when the Major's rifle and fowling piece failed to procure a supply, for Nankoah brought the choicest the forest afforded just when it was most needed, and most acceptable. If any member of the little household fell sick, Nankoah was at hand with healing roots and herbs, which had greater efficacy than the more expensive medicamentums of the professional leech. Without prying into the affairs of his family after the civilized fashion, she was enabled by her native gift of intuition to discover and anticipate many little wants, and thus she added materially to the sum of their happiness, secluded as they were from intercourse with their own race.

Thus did the dark countenance of the Indian woman become a light to Major Dean's cottage. She was beautiful, as those who in latter years have seen favorable specimens of her noble tribe will readily believe. Hers was a wild and solemn beauty, so to speak, which seemed reflected from the dark evergreens of her native forest. Her form, which had never been improved in the modern fashion, was faultless, her raven hair was always arranged with a certain degree of taste, her black eyes were calm and loving in their ordinary expression, while it was manifest to a keen observer that when passion stirred her heart, hatred and scorn would flash in lightning through them from its depths.

The orange-colored mantle of autumn had been thrown over the forests, and the crops, small but valuable, which Major Dean had cultivated on his clearing, were already garnered. For some days he had noticed that the Oneidas, whose village was situated about three miles off, had apparently avoided him, and as he was on the most friendly terms with them as a tribe, and some of them had ever treated him with particular marks of esteem he was unable to account for this sudden coldness. On several occasions when he had sauntered into the skirts of the woods in search of game, he had casually met with an Oneida, but before he could gain an opportunity to accost him, the willy red-skin had disappeared in the depths of the underwood. These circumstances had begun to produce an impression on his mind, for he knew that they boded no good to him, when at length an Indian who was especially indebted to him for kindness, came suddenly upon him in the edge of the forest one day and revealed to him some facts and circumstances which were calculated to produce great uneasiness on his mind.

An Indian of the Oneida tribe had been murdered by a white man, and according to the belief of the red men, there could be no rest for the departed spirit until his death was avenged. The Indian custom was, when one of any tribe was murdered, if possible, and if that was impracticable, one of his tribe must pay the penalty of his life to secure rest to the soul of the murdered brave. An Oneida had been slain by a white man, and as Major Dean was the only white man within their reach, the chiefs of the tribe were debating in solemn council the propriety of putting their friend to death.

For several days the debate was prolonged, the friendly Indian giving a report each day to Major Dean of what had passed in the council. He hoped, fondly hoped, that the party opposed to sacrificing him would prevail. He could not fly with his wife and little ones for he knew that he was watched, and that the nearest settlement was too far distant to be reached in safety. He dared not inform his wife of the uncertain tenure on which he held his life, so dear to himself for her sake and her children's. The suspense in which he lived was fearful, and it required all his self-command to conceal the anxiety that was consuming him.

In the covert of the forest he prayed in agony of soul that his wife and babes might not be left without a protector in the wilderness. A voice from heaven seemed to assure him that his petition was granted, and he retired to his couch that night more cheerful than he had for several days. His Indian friend had not visited him that afternoon, but he felt sure that the council had decided in his favor.

He slept soundly until near midnight, when he was awakened by a cry proceeding from a neighboring forest. His quick ear discovered that a band of the Oneidas were approaching singing his death song! He aroused his wife, and in a few words informed her what had taken place, and what must now be his doom. Imprinting one kiss on her pale brow he left her bending over her little ones in silent prayer, and went into the outer room to meet the Oneidas who were already at the door.

In spite of his strongest efforts at self possession, Major Dean's paleness betrayed the anxiety, the agony which gnawed his heart. But his lips were compressed, and the hand which waved a haughty invitation to the chiefs to enter trembled not. He was brave and feared not to die; but the thought of what might befall the little group he had left in his sleeping apartment almost unnerved him for the task of dealing with his fierce guests; for he was determined to try the power of his eloquence and reasoning with them, feeling certain that no personal ill-will against him, but rather a sense of duty had prompted them to seek his life.

The chiefs six in number, sat down, and Major Dean having placed a candle on a table which occupied one corner of the apartment, placed himself in an attitude of attention. Silence reigned for some moments, the countenances of the savages betraying no emotion whatever. At length a chief arose, and in a brief but energetic address, explained the object of their visit. Their murdered brother who had been a brave man during his life could have no rest in the hunting ground of the spirits until his murder had been avenged by the death of a white man. The Great Spirit himself was angry with his red children for delaying to execute the sentence which some of their tribe had been unwilling to pronounce on him for many days.

Major Dean replied in a speech which he hoped would make an impression on the savages sufficiently powerful to cause a reversal of their sentence. He had been accustomed to speaking in Indian councils, was versed in Indian lore, and knew what arguments would be likely to have weight in the minds of the red sons of the forest. All these he argued with all the eloquence of which he was master, dealing with the question mostly in the abstract, and hardly referring to himself and the personal interest which he had in his own life.

The Indian orator rejoined, and again Major Dean replied to him, and thus the debate went on between the two, the remainder of the party preserving silence, and seeming perfectly indifferent, or as if the matter was prejudged, and the doom of the white man was already fixed. It became evident to him that all the arguments which he was capable of adducing had already been adduced and overthrown in the protracted debate held at the council of the tribe.

And as the debate went on, hope waxed fainter and fainter in the heart of Major Dean. He felt that no personal enmity was entertained for him, but the Indian spirit of revenge taking high ground, operating like the white man's sense of religious duty, was harder to deal with, more difficult to allay or satisfy than any mere personal animosity. It was the old Jewish code—an eye for an eye, and tooth for a tooth—blood for blood, and life for life. But the motive of these poor savages was more comprehensive in design than this bloody part of the Jewish code—it was not merely to prevent murder, but to secure eternal rest to the soul of a slain brother.

The annals of mankind furnish but few scenes like that in the white man's cabin in the frontier wilderness at midnight, where he was pleading alone for his life. No, not for life, for he knew that when he became a mere suppliant for existence he would incur the contempt of the savages, and peril his last chance of saving it. He was, rather, engaged in an attempt to prove, logically, his right to live, and that they had no right to slay him.

He had for a long time maintained this high position, but his hopes, as we have said, were growing fainter as the debate proceeded. The listening chiefs were beginning to manifest slightly their impatience at the protracted nature of the conference, when, during a brief pause, Major Dean caught the tones of his wife's voice in the other apartment, conferring not with flesh and blood, but pleading fervently with her Heavenly Father to cause the life of her husband to be spared. This was to much for him to bear without betraying the weakness incident to the nature of civilized, refined men. For the moment he forgot the group before him of terrible war chiefs come to take him off to execution. He saw only that other group in which his heart was bound up, and for them he trembled with emotion, for them he condescended to beg his life at the hands of the stern warriors.

Urged by an impulse which he could not resist, he poured forth a vehement appeal couched in language such as he would have addressed to a band of white men in like circumstances. When he had ended he detected instantly a smile of exultation on more than one of the dark countenances before him—a smile which seemed to say, "he, like all white men, is weak hearted."—The orator bounded to his feet to reply, but during that instance of silence a noise from another quarter arrested the attention of the whole party.

A pattering of soft-moccasined feet was heard on the threshold of the outer door and across the bare floor, and Nankoah entered the apartment, followed by five other Indian women, the wives of the tribe. With a soft step, but with determination stamped on their brows, they entered and ranged themselves on one side of the room.—The chiefs, inexpressibly surprised as they were by this unheard-of breach of Indian etiquette, (which forbids unconditionally any woman to enter their councils,) let fall some ejaculations expressive of their astonishment, but Skenandoah made a sign to the orator to proceed. He did so in a vein of irony mingled with invective, ending in a strain like the following:

"Our brother's heart has grown soft since the wars are over, and he is afraid to die. We thought our white brother a brave, and not like women; but all white men fear death. Is the white man's God less kind, to his children than our Great Father is to us, that he should fear to go to the land of the spirits? Why should not the white man die when one of his nation hath slain an Oneida? The chiefs and the great Skenandoah have spoken it, and he shall die! Our knives are sharp, and his blood shall run fast, for we would not torment our brother—but he must die!"

When he had ceased, Skenandoah made a sign as if he would adjourn the council, but at this moment, his wife, Nankoah, the beautiful Indian woman, stepped forward two paces, and the clear music of her voice was heard throughout the apartment, contrasting strangely with the powerful tones of the speaker who had just ended. And while her auditors were paralyzed with astonishment, she spoke, timidly at first, but more energetically as she proceeded. She used no gesture, as deeming it improper that a woman should attempt to play the orator, but with her hands folded on her bosom, she pressed out from her full heart words which produced a thrilling and startling effect on all present. To Major Dean she seemed at that moment, in her dark beauty, like an angel sent to save him from death, and those whom he loved better than life from orphanage and widowhood.

"Oneidas!" she said, "the white brother must not die. The Oneidas must not make innocent blood to flow. He hath done nothing worthy of death. The white who killed an Oneida, he should fall under the hatchet—his life should be paid for that of our brother whom he hath slain."

"Have the brave Oneidas come to the wigwam of our brother to frighten his white squaw and pappooses? Let them rather hunt out the murderer. He is alive—he is guilty—he has a bad heart—but our friend, he has not a bad heart—he has always been our friend, and he is not the friend of the bad man who slew an Oneida. Will you kill your friend who has lived in your wigwams, and let the enemy of the Oneidas live? Have the eyes of your braves grown dim that they cannot find the track of the murderer? Have their limbs grown weak that they cannot pursue him? Will you make the Great spirit angry by killing an innocent man and letting a murderer live?

"Your white brother is my son! He has grown into my heart, and if the Oneidas pluck him out, blood will flow. Nankoah and her sisters love him, and he shall not die alone!

"Look!" she continued, as she drew a glittering knife from beneath her blanket, while each of the Indian women imitated her example, "you said your knives were sharp—ours are sharp too—and we have sworn to the Great Spirit that when Nankoah's son dies they shall find their way quick to our hearts!"

Had the gleam of the threatening knives and the flashings of the dark eyes of the excited women been real lightnings coruscating through the apartment, the assembled chiefs could hardly have been struck with more profound amazement than they were by this speech and the dramatic movement which attended its close.

There was a brief pause in the white man's cabin, during which nothing could be heard except the beating of hearts and the tones, husky with agony, from the adjoining room, where the wife and mother were kneeling in prayer. Just at that moment, too, the oldest child awoke, and mingled its prattle with the ascending petition. Major Dean's head dropped on his breast, and the tears ran in torrents down his cheeks at the sound of that small voice. Nankoah started forward involuntarily as if about to rush into the sleeping apartment, when Skenandoah, the chief of the Oneidas, sprang to his feet.

"It is enough," said he, the Great Spirit hath spoken! Never before did woman lift up her voice in the councils of the Oneidas! Our Father wills that our white brother must not die! Let us leave him and return to our wigwams lest the Great Spirit be angry with his red children."

The chiefs arose and after consulting together a moment left the cotage, singing a farewell to Major Dean, who was to much absorbed by his emotions to heed their movements.

Nankoah approached him and taking his hand said:

"My son is safe! Let him go and comfort his white squaw and her little pappooses."

Then turning to her companions she pointed toward the Oneidas' village and departed with them from the cottage.

As their pattering feet crossed the outer threshold, Major Dean clasped his wife and children in his arms, and returned thanks to God for his unexpected deliverance from death.

The records of Westmoreland and of Oneida County show that he subsequently lived many years; and when the whites had occupied the rich lands of that region in great numbers, he was ranked as one of the leading men of his County, and held many offices of trust to universal acceptance. And from that hour of extreme peril was he bound with the chords of affection and gratitude to Nankoah, the Second Pocahontas.

Fashionable Call.

Enter, Miss Lucy, nearly out of breath with the exertion of walking from her papa's carriage in the street to the door of her friend.

Lucy.—"Oh, Marie, how do you do? How delighted I am to see you! How have you been since you were at the ball, last Thursday evening? Oh, wasn't the appearance of that tall girl in pink perfectly frightful? Is this your shawl on the piano? Beautiful shawl! Father says he is going to send to Paris to get me a shawl, in the Spring. I can't bear home-made shawls! How do you like Monsieur Esprey? Beautiful man, ain't he? Now, don't laugh, Marie, for I am sure I don't care anything about him! Oh, my! I must be going! It's a beautiful day, isn't it? Marie, when are you coming up to see me! Oh, dear! what a beautiful pin. That pin was given to you; now I know it was, Marie: don't deny it. Harry is coming up to see me this evening, but I hate him—I do really; but he has a beautiful moustache, hasn't he Marie? Oh, dear, it's very warm. Good morning, Marie! Don't speak of Harry in connection with my name to any one; for I am sure it will never amount to anything, but I hate him awfully—I'm sure I do. Adieu.

How to use a Coal Stove.

The fire should not be permitted to die out during the winter. By keeping the fire up, an immensity of trouble is saved, and, paridoxical as it may seem it is cheaper. The reason is this. The coal burns out during the long nights, because the door of the stove is shut; whereas, if the door is left open, it will not burn out, and will be perfectly alive in the morning. There is no danger in leaving the door open, as the draft is always strong enough to carry the sparks up the pipe or chimney. If any one sleeps in the room, the upper sash of the window should be lowered two or three inches, even in the coldest weather, and more when it is milder. Having a comfortable fire in the room in cold weather, and yet enjoying fresh air by means of ventilation, is the very ideal of comfort, and is at the same time an encouragement to the habit of early rising. Shake down the ashes, therefore, before retiring, fill up the stove with coal, and leave the door open, if you wish to save yourself or servant a deal of trouble in the morning, and at the same time economize coal. But by all means open the window, if it is only the width of an inch.—Christian Statesman.

☞ An Irishman named Paddy Regan, was one among a crowd of emigrants that thronged one of the Liverpool docks, who attracted particular attention; his costume was as follows:—A hat, minus the crown—all the colors of the rainbow in his coat—no shirt—a tattered pair of breeches—no vest—barefooted—short stockings that reached to the calves of his legs—and a bundle in his hand.—A by-stander asked Pat what it contained, who informed him that it contained his every day working clothes, and that he "would not disgrace Ireland by appearing in England without his best dress."

The Capture of the Guerriere by the Frigate Constitution.

The following account of the capture of the British frigate Guerriere by the American frigate Constitution, was recently communicated to the New York Evening Post by a medical gentleman who was a prisoner on board the Guerriere during the combat. It is a paper which deserves a place among the historical archives of the country:

MR. EDITOR: Having been an American prisoner on board the Guerriere, during the famous battle between that frigate and the United States frigate Constitution, I propose giving you an account of that important action, which took place in June, 1812. About two weeks previous to the engagement, I left Boston in an American ship, which was captured by the Guerriere some five days before she fell in with the Constitution. It was about ten o'clock in the morning when the Constitution was discovered. The Guerriere hove to, to enable her to come up. As the Constitution neared us, Captain Dacres handed me his glass, and asked what I took her to be. My reply was, "She looks like a frigate." Very soon she came within reach of the long guns of the Guerriere, which were fired, but with no effect, as the sea ran high. The Constitution made no reply, but, as I saw the man manoeuvring for a position, during which Captain Dacres said to me, "Do you think she is going to strike without firing?" I replied, "I think not, sir."

At this moment, seeing a severe contest was about commencing, in which I could take no part, being only a prisoner, I raised my hat to Captain Dacres, and said to him—"With your permission, sir, I will go below, as I can take no part." "O, certainly," said he, "and you had better go into the cock-pit, and should any of our men chance to get wounded, I shall feel obliged if you will assist the surgeons in dressing them." "Certainly, sir," said I, and then descended into the cock-pit. There were the surgeons, and surgeon's mates, and attendants, sitting around a long table covered with instruments and all necessaries for dressing the wounded, as still as a funeral. Within one moment after my foot left the lower round of the ladder, the Constitution gave that double broadside, which threw all in the cock-pit over in a heap on the opposite side of the ship.

For a moment it appeared as if heaven and earth had struck together, a more terrific shock cannot be imagined. Before those in the cock-pit had adjusted themselves, the blood ran down from the decks as freely as if a wash-tub full had been turned over, and instantly the dead, wounded and dying were handed down as rapidly as men could pass them, till the cock-pit was filled, with hardly room for the surgeons to work. Midshipmen were handed down with one leg, some with one arm, and others wounded in almost every shape and condition.—An officer who was on the table having his arm amputated, would sing out to a comrade coming down wounded "Well, shipmate, how goes the battle?" Another would make even the dying smile, and so constant and freely were the playful remarks from the maimed and even the dying, that I almost doubted my senses. Indeed, all this was crowded into a space of not over fifteen or twenty minutes, before the firing ceased. I then went upon the deck, and what a scene was presented, and how changed in so short a time!

The Constitution looked perfectly fresh—and, even at this time, those on board the Guerriere did not know what ship had fought them. On the other hand, the Guerriere was a mere rolling log—almost entirely at the mercy of the sea. Her colors all shot away, her main-mast and mizzen-mast all gone by the board, and her fore-mast standing by the mere honeycomb's the shot had made. Capt. Dacres stood, with his officers, surveying the scene—all, all in the most perfect astonishment.—At this moment a boat was seen putting off from the hostile ship for the Guerriere. As soon as within speaking distance, a young gentleman, (Midshipman Reed, now Commodore Reed,) hailed and said, "I wish to see the officer in command of this ship."

At this, Captain Dacres stepped forward, and answered. Midshipman Reed then said, "Commodore Hull's compliments and wishes to know if you have struck your flag."

At this, Captain Dacres appeared amazed, but recovering himself, and looking up and down, he deliberately replied:

"Well, I don't know—our mizzen-mast is gone, our main-mast is gone—and upon the whole, you may say that we have struck our flag!"

"Com. Hull's compliments, and wishes to know if you need the assistance of a surgeon or a surgeon's mate?"

Captain Dacres replied, "Well, I should suppose you had on board your own ship business enough for all your medical officers."

Midshipman Reed replied, "O, no; only seven wounded, and they were dressed half an hour ago."

Captain Dacres then turned to me, deeply affected, and said, "How have our situations been suddenly reversed! You are now free, and I a prisoner."

All the boats of both ships were now put in requisition to remove the wounded on board the Constitution. So dreadful was the condition of many of them, that two days were nearly consumed in the removal; after which the Guerriere was burned, with all her stores, armament, &c. The Constitution having recently come out of port, had no room to take scarcely an article.

Who can imagine the joy I experienced in finding myself again under American colors, or the pride I felt at finding, from Commodore Hull down to the most humble man on board, an entire absence of everything like a boastful, or even a triumphant look, at their wonderful victory. Captain Dacres kept his state room till we arrived in port. About two hundred of his men were necessarily ironed, as the ship was so crowded. Charles Morris, (now Commodore,) the first officer of the Constitution, had a ball through his body, and for several days his recovery was doubtful; during which he sent for me to come to his room, and I well remember his perfect unconcern for himself, although the surgeon had apprised him of his danger. Every courtesy and kindness was by Captain Hull and his officers extended to their prisoners.

On Sunday, about noon, the Constitution arrived in Boston harbor. I was sent on shore in a boat. The harbor between the ship and wharves was now covered with boats to learn the news. To the first boat that we neared we hailed, "The Constitution has captured the Guerriere." Instantly, the two men in the boat took off their hats and violently struck them on the side of the boat, and rising, gave cheer upon cheer. They hailed other boats, and thus the air was rent with cheers, and the victory passed along till it reached the wharf, and then spread like wildfire all over the city and country.

It is now nearly forty years since the transaction of that day proved to the Americans that British frigates were not invincible. Who can remember that day without feeling a glow of pride, that so early in the war, and in a manner so unprecedented, a victory so perfect should have been achieved? I write this statement without notes, but believe it has been in the main, accurate.

☞ A late municipal Judge in Boston, as famous for his ready wit, as for the lowness of his stature, was one day walking with five or six gentlemen of unusual length.

"Well, Judge, how do you feel, walking among so many tall fellows?" said one of his companions.

"How do I feel," replied the Judge, "why I feel like a [illegible] among six cents."

Sunbury and Erie Railroad.

At the meeting of the Sunbury and Erie railroad committee, held in Philadelphia on the 27th inst., at the Board of Trade room, $100,000 were subscribed towards the project. The committee adjourned to meet again on Friday next. The following letter from J. Edgar Thompson, Esq., in reference to this road, will be read with interest.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29.

DEAR SIR;—I have before me your favor of the 17th inst. You do not over-estimate the interest I feel as a citizen of Philadelphia in the construction of the Sunbury and Erie railroad.

That enterprise has not been regarded by me as a rival to the Pennsylvania railroad. I have considered the construction of both as essential to the proper development of the resources of the State and the prosperity of our city. When completed, each work will send out its branches to the more inaccessible counties, and gathering the trade of nearly the entire Commonwealth, pour in into one common centre, destroying that diversity of feeling among her citizens at present fostered by their divided markets.

The amount yet to be raised to complete the Pennsylvania railroad is so comparatively small, that we may, without endangering the progress of that great work, spare some of our means to insure the early commencement of yours, which is not considered a rival, but a kindred enterprise, each calculated largely to increase the wealth and population of both our city and State—thus one exerting a favorable influence upon the business of the other. I hazard nothing in saying, that the increased value of property in Philadelphia and the counties continuous to the line of these roads, directly resulting from their construction, will equal the whole cost of both; while the commercial, manufacturing and mining interests cannot fail to reap advantages to an equal extent.—The region to be traveled by this road, is at present without a direct outlet to market, and its inhabitants seek that of a rival city, through the circuitous channels afforded by a neighboring State.

This condition of things should not be suffered to continue.

The superiority of the harbor of Erie is shown by the extension of the New York and Erie railroad to it, the completion of which, instead of proving injurious to your enterprise, will, in connection with the anticipated construction of this road, concentrate there a large portion of the trade of the lakes, and increase population and productive capacity of the vast region tributary to it. The wise provision of the act of the last session of our Legislature, breaking the guage of the track at Erie, will also discharge at that point, from the Ohio road, a considerable amount of travel and freight during the close of navigation, which will tend to increase the importance of the place, and give to your route the advantages, as soon as completed, of a terminal point of large trade. The broad guage of the Erie road, so often referred to as a mark of its superiority, instead of affording any practical advantage, will be found by experience to add to the cost of transportation.

The superiority of the gradient upon your line, united with its shorter distance, and its comparatively low cost, must enable you, as soon as your road is completed, to engross nearly the whole of the trade and travel between Erie and the seaboard, which, with the undivided local business of the country traveled will be ample to secure any reasonable dividends upon your stock.

In no other section of the State will the effects of an improvement of the kind be so manifest in the advance of the value of lands, and the rapid increase in the resources of the country, as upon the line of this road, which, with the accumulation of the through business, must soon demand a double track.

Seeing no other road projected which promises equal benefits to the State and its metropolis, or stronger inducements for the safe and profitable investment of capital, I have little difficulty in bringing my mind to meet your views, and accordingly subscribe one hundred shares to the stock of your company, upon the conditions printed in your subscription book. Although the amount may not be equal to your expectations, it is as large as my means will justify. Trusting that your efforts will meet the success they merit, I look forward to the completion of the two great railroads of Pennsylvania as the instruments of regaining to Philadelphia her former proud position as the first city of the Union. Very truly yours,

J. EDGAR THOMPSON,
Civil Engineer.

Congress and the Cuban Prisoners.

In the House of Representatives, on Wednesday the Bill paying $6000 to bring back the Cuban prisoners from Spain, brought out from Mr. Carter of Ohio, a proposition to disclaim any approval or sanction of the Cuban Expedition. Much feeling and excitement sprung up therefrom,—but as the debate was under the five minutes rule, it was soon brought to an end.

The principle set forth by Carter's amendment is one of great importance, first in going against the whole principle of intervention, and second, particularly against Cuba intervention.

The House adjourned to think upon it, ordering the ayes and noes.

On Thursday, the amendment of Mr. Cartter was adopted by a vote of 91 to 71. The amendment reads thus:

Provided that nothing in this act shall be construed into an approbation of any interference in the domestic affairs of Cuba, by any of the citizens of the United States.

The bill was then passed by an overwhelmingly affirmative vote—yeas 147, nays 22. Here is the vote against it, in detail:

NAYS—Messrs. Allen, free whig of Mass.; Allison, whig of Pa.; Averett, S. R. dem. of Va.; Campbell, free soil whig of Ohio; Conger, whig of Mich.; Egerton, dem. of Ohio; Fowler, whig of Mass.; Gaylord, dem. of Ohio; Giddings, free soil of Ohio; Orr, S. R. dem. of S. C.; Phelps, dem. of Mo.; Powell, S. R. dem. of Va.; Schoonmaker, whig of N. Y.; Scudder, whig of Mass.; Smith, dem. of Ala.; Stanton, whig of Ohio; Stevens, dem. of N. Y.; Woodward, S. R. dem. of S. C.; Hall, dem. of Mo.; J. W. Howe, whig of Pa.; Meacham, whig of Vt.; and Newton, free soil whig of Ohio.

This, so far as we can gather, is all that was done, of public interest, in either House last week.

We find in the Mobile Register a letter from CHARLES A DOWNER, one of the Cuban prisoners sent to Spain, in which he relates some of the particulars of the expedition, and of its final result, and concludes his statement as follows:

Again I say thus ended this expedition, and so it ought to have ended. For an Expedition raised through deception, where young men of no experience in affairs of this sort are induced through false representations to join in a revolution, God's curse ought to be upon it, and the leaders should be made to suffer such torments as none but demons could invent. But no, the most innocent in this case have been made to suffer. For Colonel Haynes and Capt. Kelly, two men who worked harder to get up the expedition than any others, were by order of the Captain General, released at Havana. But God's will be done, if I am doomed to remain a prisoner here, I shall submit and bear my fate like a man.—But should it be my luck to return home, I assure you sincerely that this is the last time, as well as the first, that I will ever engage in an undertaking of this kind.

AMERICAN GENIUS.—Harrison Winans left Baltimore a few years ago a poor boy, but with an improved mind, acquired at a country school, with genius, ambition, and enterprise. He worked his way in Europe to the head of the machinists and engineers, and became a leading contractor on the great railroad between Moscow and Petersburgh—400 miles long. He has made over $1,000,000. On his return to Paris, he married a talented, amiable, and beautiful lady, and will soon build a cage for her, in the shape of a villa for all kinds of mechanics, and a park of three acres beautifully ornamented, where rich and poor may feast their eyes on indigenous plants and rare exotics. He goes once more to Russia to fill a contract with the Emperor on public works, by which he will bring $500,000 in gold for his mental labors.—Wash. Telegraph.

☞ A sudden and startling death occurred on the 29th ult., in Dr. Beecher's Church, at Brooklyn, N. Y. where Rev. Mr. Eggleston was lecturing on the Pilgrim Fathers. Rev. T. L. Skinner, an aged Presbyterian divine, took his seat with his daughter in a pew, and soon after leaned forward as she tho't to take of his overshoes. Remaining in this position, she became uneasy, and on his being raised up, he was found to be dead. Disease of the heart was the cause. He was 84 years old, and an excellent man. He resided, until last spring, at Frostburg, Maryland.

☞ On account of the publication of the Annual Statement of the Receipts and Expenditures of the County in the Observer this week, we have been compelled to curtail our usual amount of literary matter on the first page. The matter substituted, however, is of peculiar interest to every tax-payer, besides slightly so to ourselves.

☞ We invite attention to the letter, in another column, from J. Edgar Thompson, Civil Engineer, in relation to the Sunbury and Erie Railroad. It is the letter we alluded to in our last, and, as we then said, it is one calculated to have great weight in furthering the interests of that company. Mr. T.'s knowledge of railroads, being intimately connected with the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh road, and his experience as an Engineer, together with the fact that he has demonstrated the sincerity of his faith in the intrinsic value of this enterprise, by the liberal subscription of $10,000, cannot fail to enlist a large amount of capital in the work.

Mr. Hosmer's Lectures.

We were among the fortunate few who had the pleasure of hearing the first, of W. H. C. HOSMER, Esq., of Avon, N. Y., before the Irving Institute, on Thursday evening. His subject, "A Tilt at Humbug," gave full scope and play to his well known literary talents, and right well were they employed. No Damascus blade ever cut with keener edge in the hands a skilful swordsman, than the pungent wit and sarcasm of the Lecturer when leveled at the Humbugs of the present day. The gentlemen with cap, and bells of all professions, whether of foreign or domestic growth, Saxon, Celt, Gaul, Magyar, or Jonathan, were made to play their appropriate part for the amusement and instruction of the audience. But we have not room to amplify—suffice it to say, Mr. H. lectures again this evening, when those who were so unfortunate as not to be present on last evening or Thursday evening, can have an opportunity of doing so.

His subject to night will be—"Scottish Song."—Monday.—"Ireland and Her Poets, Ancient and Modern." Tuesday.—"The Ideal." Wednesday.—"Indian Tradition and Character."

There is no End to Humbug.

The truth of this assertion we see exemplified every day. In morals, physic, trade, law, literature, politics, love and religion, humbuggery is more or less resorted to by unworthy men. We, as a people, love to be humbugged, and more than all we love to pay for it. We swallow innumerable doses of molasses and water, and call it an infallible remedy for some imaginary disease.—We make up wry faces at bread-pills, and deem we are swallowing some cure all, invented solely for our particular case by some philanthropic "M. D." We buy and dress our wives and daughters in cotton and worsted fabrics with a French name, and think them arrayed in stuffs from over the sea, when ten to one the goods first saw the light in some New England village. We put feathers in our hats, contribute "material aid" to Hungary, and think we are thereby helping to spread our own institutions over the old world, when in truth and in fact we know nothing about it. We run to hear Jenny Lind sing as long as the magic name of Barnum is connected with hers, but when he has "lined his pockets" with our bills and gold dollars, we drop her, to use a homely phrase "like a hot potatoe," though she sings just as divinely, and is as liberal with her purse as ever. Ah! but we like to be humbugged, and just now, in our opinion, we are being "done up peculiarly brown" by the "Eloquent," the "handsome" Magyar, Kossuth. Not satisfied with turning our politics topsyturvy, and setting our politicians crazy with a new "one idea," or with turning our pulpits into rostrums from which to preach a crusade against Russia, Austria, and the "rest of mankind"—not content with setting our sweethearts and wives to pulling caps for a smile from his mustached lip, or with introducing a kind of bandit-looking dress among our "foin gentlemen"—he must needs flood our country with a new emission of "red dog" paper-money, in denominations of from $1 to $100, that each fool may know just how much, in dollars and cents, he is humbugged. Come to think of it, we do not know but this is a good idea. The purchaser of Townsend's Sarsaparilla, or any other of the thousand and one nostrums invented to delude us out of our dimes, rejoices, after the use of his bottle, in a very fine steel engraving with the "autograph" of the humbugger on it. So it will be with the purchaser of Kossuth patriotism, only the Sarsaparilla label has decidedly the advantage in its democracy—each purchaser, whether he is a big fish or a little fish, whether he hails from a log cabin in the west, or from some marble palace "above Broadway," is treated exactly alike in regard to the "autograph." Not so, with Kossuth's "red-dog" labels—it is only the "larger ones," the "$100" gentlemen, that "have Kossuth's autograph signature;" the "smaller," the plebeian "$1" clod-hoppers, must be content "with a perfect fac-simile of the same." But seriously, if such a thing can be treated seriously, is'nt this the most bare-faced attempt to swindle the people, through their well-known feelings for the cause of civil and religious liberty, that has yet been devised. That we may not be accused of misrepresentation, we quote a paragraph from the New York Times, unfolding the scheme:

AID FOR HUNGARY.—We have already stated that the Central Hungarian Committee in this city has completed the preparation of engraved notes, for the purpose of affording those who desire to contribute something in aid of Hungarian independence satisfactory means of doing so. The notes are respectively for $100, $50, $20, $10, $5 and $1—the larger ones having Kossuth's autograph signature, and the smaller having a perfect fac simile of the same. They are engraved in the finest possible style, and have beautiful portraits of KOSSUTH upon them.

Of course every ass in the land that can raise a dollar, no matter whether his shoe-maker's or tailor's bill has been paid or not, will send for one of these "red-dog" pictures. This, together with the thousands that will be sent in by those who have been misled by the humbug press of the country, and the "20's" and "50's" that will be contributed by politicians who will deem the notoriety they will thereby acquire cheap at that price, will undoubtedly swell the sum total to an enormous amount; and all this from a people that are eternally prating about their taxes, and much of it from the very men that went into spasms over the expense of the Mexican war. But what is to be done with this money? Why, it is "material aid to Hungary"—to enable Hungary to obtain her independence! we think we hear some enthusiast with a "feather in his hat" reply. Simpleton, that ye are, no! Let us show you, and from Kossuth himself, too, that but very little of this "material aid" is appropriated to its legitimate use. While Kossuth was in Pittsburgh a delegation was sent from Cleveland to extend a formal invitation to him to visit that city. Mr. Gray, editor of the Plain Dealer (one of the committee) in a letter to his own paper gives full particulars of their first interview with Kossuth. It appears that the ex-Governor spoke very plainly to the editor of the Plain Dealer, who thus records his language in reference to the proposed reception:

"Gentlemen, you will know my wishes when I tell you that already one hundred and sixty thousand dollars have been raised in this country for the Hungarian fund, and but thirty thousand of it has been realized for my suffering cause. The rest has been drank and toasted out in costly banquets and foolish parades, for which I have no taste and in which I take no pleasure. I have contracted for 40,000 muskets at $2 each, $80,000: I have made one payment and have got others to make, or lose what has been paid. If the money raised had been properly expended, my mission would ere this have been ended, and the basis of my country's liberty secured."

So it appears that of all this patriotic outpouring of "material aid" to "suffering Hungary," but about one dollar out of five has been devoted to the "mission;" the balance, one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, has been expended in giving "material aid" to both the hungry and the dry among those who have taken the "eloquent Magyar" under their protection. In other words, the people have been swindled out of this vast sum to enable "small-beer politicians" to make champaign speeches, at "costly banquets and foolish parades." Verily, there is no end to Humbug.

Proceedings of Court.

Reported for the Erie Observer.

Jan. 30—Present, Judges Galbraith, Pres., and Miles and Sterrett, Associates.

The case of John Duncan vs. Theodore Johnson was called and proceeded to trial. In the summer of 1849 Johnston bought the canal boat John A. Tracy, and ran her the rest of the season and laid her up at Beaver during the winter. Having had as much experience on the canal as he wanted during the summer, or finding more profitable business to engage his attention, he sold her to Duncan in February 1850, representing as was alleged by plaintiff that she was in first rate repair and sound, when he knew to the contrary. He was smart enough to get his pay at the time of the sale or soon after. Duncan went early in the spring to Beaver to take possession of his boat, and commence business, and was much disappointed at her appearance, and after giving the subject every consideration, he came to the conclusion that the "world was hollow," and his boat rotten, and that he would make Johnson dance to a tune he would play, and in his wrath commenced this action of deceit to recover back his money. Theodore replied that he did not make the false representations, that Duncan had obtained the information from others upon which he bought, and that being the case he could not recover in this suit. But the jury would not believe him. They somehow or other got an impression that there was "cheating" about, and determined to put their foot on it, and found a verdict for plaintiff for $524 47. Marshall & Vincent for plaintiff. Thompson & Grant for defendant.

Jan. 31.—Ruled and granted to show why a new trial should not be granted, so the matter is not yet ended.

Jan 30—The case of C. F. Norton vs. J. V. Carter was next on the calendar. This was an action of ejectment. The land had been sold by parol agreement to Carter but no money paid or possession given when Norton obtained a judgment against the vendor of the land. After this Carter took possession of the land under his former agreement. Norton sold the land on an execution issued on his judgment and bid it off himself and brought this action to recover the land. The question was then whether the judgment entered after the parol sale was a lien on the land, and whether the sheriff's vender acquired title under the sale as against the vender by parol. The Court ruled in favor of the sheriff's title and verdict for plaintiff. Cutler for plaintiff, Marshall & Vincent for Defendant.

Jan. 31.—Etsel Sutton vs. Ira Sutton. This was an action of malicious persecution and slander. In 1846, the defendant became indebted to the plaintiff to a considerable sum for various matters, and in payment gave him three several notes. Two of the notes were recognized by defendant as genuine and paid. The third note which defendant says was originally $62 28 and plaintiff $162 28, was cut down by an arrangement $20. Pltf. negotiated a note against defendant for 142 28 and the purchaser gave defendant notice, and he said the note was a forgery, as it should have been only $42 28, and accused the plaintiff, his brother, with the forgery and arrested him for it in June 1850. After examination before Justice Smith he was dischaaged, and brought this suit to vindicate his character and compensate him in a measure for the injury he had sustained. At the time of the transaction he was a member in good standing in the Methodist church as well as defendant, but was poor and of small influence; the defendant was much better off in this world's goods and soon succeeded in getting him expelled from the church, and has kept him in trouble ever since. The testimony occupied all day and until 11 o'clock P. M., when the court adjourned over until Monday morning.

Monday morning, Feb. 2.—Court met. The jury in the case of Sutton vs. Sutton returned a verdict for plff. for $40 00. Thompson & Grant and Marshall for plff. Taylor and Babbitt for defendant.

Commonwealth vs Henry Palmer, indicted for assault and battery, prosecutor not appearing, his recognizance was forfeited and defendant discharged. Taylor for Commonwealth.

Commonwealth vs Henry Whipple, Joseph Whipple and John Munson, indictment under act of 1705 "against mixing and adulterating strong liquors." Deft. moved to quash the indictment, as no indictable offence was set out,—granted. Taylor for pros., Galbraith, Whallon and Cutler for defts.

Commonwealth vs James Decamp, indictment for assault and battery. Settled.

Commonwealth vs Royal D. Nason, indictment for assault and battery. Settled.

Commonwealth vs John Scott, indictment for passing counterfeit money. Verdict not guilty. Taylor for pros., Galbraith and Marshall for defence.

Commonwealth vs H. S. Drake, indictment for assault and battery. Plead guilty. Sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and costs.

Commonwealth vs Wm. Lee, indictment for larceny. Verdict guilty.

Commonwealth vs Albert Wilson, Daniel King and Nathan King. Assault and battery, bill ignored.

Commonwealth vs Smith Corbin, indictment for keeping a tippling house. Bill ignored and Edward Brace, the prosecutor pay the costs.

Commonwealth vs Joseph McBride, assault and battery. Plead guilty and fine $5 and costs.

Commonwealth vs Hamilton Waters, assault and battery. Plead guilty; fined $5 and costs.

Commonwealth vs Urban Knoll, assault and battery. Verdict guilty. Taylor for pros., Marshall for defence.

Commonwealth vs J. S. Cunningham, indictment for the larceny of a keg of butter from C. M. Tibbals. Plea, not guilty. Jury could not agree. Taylor for pros., Whallon, Galbraith, Cutler and Babbitt, for defence.

Commonwealth vs Michael Leve, indictment for assault and battery.

Commonwealth vs Joseph Richstadt, Henry Albrecht, Michael Hayner, George Stopple, indictment for libel. Not a true bill.

Commonwealth vs Samuel Stone, indictment for the murder of Rachel Counsellor. Verdict voluntary manslaughter. Taylor and Babbitt for pros., Galbraith and Marshall for defence.

Commonwealth vs James Kingston, assault and battery. Settled.

☞ GOV. BIGLER'S FIRST VETO.—Gov. Bigler sent to the Senate, on Thursday of last week, a message vetoing a bill supplementary to an act incorporating the Hanover Branch Railroad. The Governor's objections did not rest against the main features of the bill, but some of its sections appeared to have been drawn in such a loose and careless manner, that they conferred unlimited power upon the Directors in regard to issuing stock, banking purposes, &c. The veto was sustained, 27 to 3, and then the bill was amended so as to remove the objectionable features, and passed.

SENSIBLE ADVICE.—The New York Herald thus closes a long article on Kossuth:

"We would advise him and all his friends to turn their attention to sober realities—not sophistries, absurdities, and improbabilities, however fine in language, novel in thought, or eloquent in delivery. Let them all take a lesson from their avant courier, old Governor Ujhazy—let them go to the West, buy farms, turn farmers and practical philosophers, and Kossuth may be returned from some Western State as a Delegate and Congressman.—All else is humbug."

☞ ADJUTANT GENERAL.—A correspondent to the Pittsburg Post, under date of Harrisburg, Jan. 28, says he is informed, by undoubted authority, that "Col. James Keenan, of Westmoreland county, has been appointed Adjutant General by Gov. Bigler. This will be a very popular appointment. Col. Keenan is a young man of brilliant talents, and eminently qualified for the position to which he has been appointed. He was a Lieutenant in the Mexican war, and his brave and gallant conduct while an officer in actual service, is a sure guarantee that he will honor the office of Adjutant General of Pennsylvania." A slight acquaintance with Col. Keenan leads to endorse fully all that is here said commendatory of his appointment.

Democratic County Convention.

In pursuance of a call of the Democratic Central Committee of Erie county, delegates from the several townships, Boroughs, and Wards of the county assembled at the American Hotel in the city of Erie on Monday, February 2nd, at two o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of electing two delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be holden in Harrisburg on the 4th of March. The Convention was called to order by HENRY TELLER, Esq., of Girard, who nominated S. F. WARNER, Esq., of Springfield, permanent Chairman. The motion was put and carried. W. W. WYATT, of Harborcreek, and HARLEY SHERMAN, Esq., of Elk Creek, were then elected Vice Presidents, and B. F. Sloan, of Erie, and C. C. Boyd, of Washington, appointed Secretaries.

The roll of townships was then called, and the credentials of delegates received. It appeared that there were several townships unrepresented, besides several represented, the delegates from which had no credentials. Also, the East Ward of the city of Erie two sets of delegates appeared, and claimed seats.

On motion, the convention proceeded to fill up the unrepresented townships with gentlemen present from them severally, and to admit the delegates claiming seats without credentials. The representation then stood as follows:

Erie—East Ward.—Claimed by W. W. Loomis, G. A. Bennett, and Murray Whallon, and C. M. Tibbals.
Erie—West Ward.—Benjamin Grant, B. F. Sloan.
Millcreek.—Robert Cochran, A. F. Worden.
Harborcreek.—P. P. Bryant, W. W. Wyatt.
North East.—Thomas Folwell, Job Freeman.
" Borough.—H. H. Allison, Alex. Davidson.
Greenfield.—E. C. Roberts, Thomas Brown.
Venango.—Horace Wood.
Green.—Columbus Barney, A. P. Rouse.
Amity.—Allen Ensworth.
Wattsburg.—W. B. Williams, Daniel Bishop.
Wayne.—D. W. Howard, Amos Heath.
Waterford.—Curtis Osborn, Samuel Phoenix,
M'Kean.—J. G. Burlingham, J. F. L. McClure.
Edenboro.—Marcus Saley, M. Greenfield.
Washington.—Levi White.
Elk Creek.—Harley Sherman, Luke Warner.
Springfield.—S. F. Warner, Maj A. Mallory.
Girard.—Henry Teller, John Robinson.
" Borough.—A. G. Ely, Arthur Greenwood.
Fairview.—George H. Turner.
Waterford—Borough.—C. C. Boyd, B. W. Vanscise.

Henry Teller, Esq., of Girard, stated that one of the delegates from Springfield could not attend, and moved that the other be allowed two votes.

B. F. Sloan, of Erie, moved to amend, allowing each township two votes whether represented by one or two delegates, whereupon Mr. Teller, with the consent of the seconder, withdrew his motion.

Mr. Sloan moved the original resolution as amended, and there being a second, it was put and carried.

On motion the contested seats from the East Ward of the city, were taken up, when Hon James Thompson appeared on the part of Messrs. Loomis and Bennett, and Murray Whallon, Esq., on the part of himself and his collegue, C. M. Tibbals. After both parties had been heard, and the matter fully discussed, a motion was made declaring Messrs. Loomis and Bennett the duly elected delegates for the East Ward. Henry Teller, Esq moved to amend by substituting the names of Murray Whallon and C. M. Tibbals. The yeas and nays were called, when it appeared that 17 voted for the admission of Loomis and Bennett, and 15 for Whallon and Tibbals—several declining to vote. W. W. Loomis then came forward and took his seat, and presented a paper from his colleague, Mr. Bennett, appointing W. G. Arbuckle his substitute—he being suddenly called from home, and unable to attend.

On motion, Mr. Arbuckle was admitted to a seat in the Convention.

On motion, the Convention then proceeded to the nomination and election of delegates to the 4th of March Convention at Harrisburg.

Benjamin Grant, Esq., nominated Smith Jackson, of Erie, and Anthony Saltsman, of Millcreek.

Henry Teller, Esq., nominated Wm. A. Galbraith, and Murray Whallon, Esqrs., of Erie, whereupon the nominations closed, and the Convention proceeded to ballot, with the following result:

Smith Jackson,	24 votes.
Anthony Saltsman,	22 "
Murray Whallon,	15 "
William A. Galbraith,	17 "

Smith Jackson and Anthony Saltsman having been declared duly elected delegates from Erie county, Benjamin Grant, Esq., moved they be instructed to support the election of delegates to the Baltimore Convention favorable to the nomination of Gen SAM HOUSTON, of Texas, for President.

Henry Teller, Esq., of Girard, moved to amend, by striking out the name of Gen. Sam Houston, and inserting JAMES BUCHANAN.

Mr. Grant moved to lay the amendment upon the table, which was put and carried. The original resolution was then adopted without a division.

The Convention then proceeded to the nomination and election of three conferees to meet a similar number from Crawford, to appoint a Senatorial Delegate. E. W. Gerrish, of Edenboro, Harley Sherman, of Elk Creek, and B. F. Sloan, of Erie, were nominated, and as no other nominations were offered, were elected viva voce.

On motion, Resolved, That the proceedings of this Convention be published in the Erie Observer and Our World, and the Pennsylvanian be requested to copy.

S. F. WARNER, Pres't.

WM. W. WYATT, HARLEY SHERMAN, Vice Pres'ts.

C. C. Boyd, B. F. Sloan, Secretaries.

For the Erie Observer.

To the Democracy of Erie County.

The undersigned, believing as they do, that at your county convention, as well as at the primary meetings, in some instances which appointed its members, the usages of our party were violated and the principles of right wholly disregarded, have deemed it proper to submit to you an unvarnished statement of facts, showing what has been done in your name, that you may either approve of or repudiate the same. Having become satisfied at an early day, that the democracy of this great commonwealth would press with a unanimity unparalleled in its history, the nomination, of our distinguished fellow citizen, the Hon. James Buchanan, as a candidate for the Presidency, at the approaching Baltimore Convention, with the brightest prospects of his success before that convention, and his triumphant election by the great democratic party of the Union, at the approaching presidential election, deemed it their duty to the party, the voice of which they are ever ready to obey, and to that firm, consistent, and distinguished champion of its principles, that they should acquiesce in what was clearly the expressed will of the majority of our glorious old party, vindicate the fair fame of the chosen leader of the Democracy of this state, and by every honorable means secure the harmony of our party by giving effect to the will of the majority, sustaining the high reputation of our candidate and maintaining the comparative influence of this ancient and powerful democratic commonwealth among the several states comprising our glorious union. Entertaining these views they have, upon every suitable occasion, endeavored to enforce by fair arguments, and render effective and triumphant, by well directed energy and the use of legitimate means, the claims of our state, and the success of the candidate which she presents. Before the meeting of your convention, or the selection of the members which composed it, this state had spoken, and the voice of the majority of the party, as expressed in county conventions, the result of which was already known, thro'-out the state, but a publication of which had been carefully avoided by the organ of the party in this county. What had been conjecture, was then history. Ninety-eight delegates having been chosen, of which Mr. Buchanan had seventy-six, Gen. Cass thirteen, doubtful and claimed by both, nine, Gen'l. Houston none. The State convention being composed of one hundred and thirty-three members. Mr. Buchanan had already a clear majority of nine in a full convention. and of the remaining thirty-five delegates to be chosen, it was almost certain he would have thirty, leaving him the overwhelming majority of seventy-nine in a convention thus composed.

The situation of the party in the State being as stated above, the contest for delegates in this County took place on the 31st ultimo, with the following results in the several districts where meetings were held, to wit:

Districts.	For Buchanan.		Districts.	Op. to Buch.
Erie, East Ward,	2	delegates	Erie, W Ward,	2	del'gts.
Millcreek,	2	"	Harborcreek,	1	"
North East bor.,	2	"	North East tp.	1	"
Greenfield,	2	"	Greene,	2	"
Wattsburg,	2	"	Waterford tp.	2	"
Waterford bor.,	2	"	Girard bor.,	2	"
McKean,	2	"	Elkcreek	2	"
Girard tp.,	2	"	Edinboro,	2	"
Del'gts chosen,	17			15

The above were all the delegates selected by the people, in attendance and admitted to their seats except the two delegates from the East Ward in this city, and one delegate each from the townships of Millcreek, Elk Creek and McKean.

In the first district named, a contest arose, the nature of which we will now proceed to state. Our meeting was held in the Court House. The Court being in session it was held during a recess of the court and could continue from that cause only one hour, during which time not more than one half of the Democrats of the ward were in attendance. At the opening of the meeting a motion was made and carried to select by ballot, in violation to the uniform usage of the party for at least twelve years. At fifteen minutes before the time fixed for closing the polls the opponents of Mr. Buchanan believing themselves in the majority, made a motion to close the same upon which a violent discussion arose which had the desired effect to stop the voting entirely until the time had arrived to close. When the President proceeded to count the ballots deposited, taking first mainly those which were in favor of Messrs. Tibbals and Whallon the Buchanan delegates. When they were tallied out, he proceeded with those for Messrs. Loomis and Bennett upon the outside of which were the words "Opposed to Buchanan." Having counted about one-third of these tickets, the President of the caucus opened one, upon the inside of which was printed "B. F. Sloan," "Benjamin Grant," (they being candidates in the West Ward,) upon examination of which he said, "here is a mistake," "here is a vote lost," upon the point being raised decided that the vote should not be counted. On continuing the count three other votes of the same character were found—when the count was finished with the following result:

For Charles M. Tibbals,	39	votes.
" Murray Whallon,	39	"
" G. A. Bennett,	37	"
" W. W. Loomis,	37	"

When the President declining to adhere to the principle announced as applicable to the first "West Ward ticket" found, and being about to take a viva voce expression of the meeting, the room then being filled with citizens of both Wards, a motion was made and carried to refer the question to the County Convention, which was accordingly done.

I fully concur in the statement of facts above, so far as relates to the proceedings of the caucus in the East Ward in this city. HALSEY PELTON, Sec'y of Caucus.

Our delegate from the township of Millcreek being absent had substituted the defeated Houston delegate from that township upon the pledge of fidelity to instructions.

The delegates from the East Ward in this city, being thus unjustly excluded from seats in said convention until the convention came to act upon the question involved, gave the opponents of Mr. Buchanan the power to control the order of proceeding, the delegate from Millcreek referred to, voting with them on the question which we will now proceed to state.

The convention being organized, and the credentials of delegates selected presented, a motion was made by the friends of Mr. Buchanan to settle the contested question in this city. An amendment was offered to first admit persons not appointed, residents of the several townships which had held no meetings, and in attendance by request or otherwise, which amendment was adopted. Under this process delegates were admitted from the following Townships, Amity, Wayne, Venango and Fairview. The delegates from Venango, and who would have voted for Buchanan delegates, being upon the Grand Jury, and Court calling at this time, were compelled to leave the convention, when the vote being taken on the admission of the majority delegates from the East Ward, they were rejected by a vote of seventeen to fourteen, and the minority delegate admitted by the same vote.—When Anti-Buchanan delegates were selected and instructed for Gen'l Houston. Thus terminated the convention to which no parallel can be found in the political history of the country. We are, very respectfully, Your fellow-democrats.

New County Project—Cambridge Meeting.

MR. EDITOR:—I would ask your indulgence, in order to communicate to the public, through your columns, a few ideas in relation to the above named project, and to state some of the doings at the Cambridge meeting.—In looking over your columns, I observed a notice of a meeting to be held at Cambridge, on the 19th of January, for the avowed object of making preliminary arrangements for the formation of a new County, out of parts of Erie and Crawford, with the County seat at Waterford. Being somewhat interested, I repaired to the place of appointment, although the day was terrific beyond description. A goodly number were soon assembled, citizens of Crawford County; then commenced the gossip with regard to the new County; one, and only one opinion was expressed, and that was decided opposition to the project. Late in the day a delegation arrived from Waterford, zealous of their rights, zealous of the rights of the dear people, clamoring loudly against the enormous taxes laid upon the people by the County of Erie, earnestly desiring for the sake of the people to rid themselves of so unfavorable a connection, being almost totally indifferent with regard to the County seat, so that they might be disconnected from the old County, and thus escape the payment of taxes for the support of the paupers of Erie. The meeting was organized by electing William Campbell, Esq., of Cambridge, President, and Peter Judson, Esq., of Waterford, and Celer Jackson, of Cambridge, Secretaries; a committee of five were appointed to draft resolutions, expressive of the sense of the meeting. Four of said committee agreed upon a set of resolutions, and reported them to the meeting, they were received with one deafning shout of yea; but not without every possible obstacle being thrown in the way by the people of Waterford; such as motions to adjourn, and an effort to prevent the people of Cambridge from voting, and every other device that their ingenuity was master of.

The reader will judge by this time what kind of resolutions they were. They were uncompromisingly in opposition to the project. A vote was passed authorizing the publication of the proceedings of the meeting in the several papers of Erie and Meadville. But where are they? Have they been published? I think not. The fact is, the gentleman from Waterford was the acting Secretary, and consequently the papers would fall into his hands, and being averse to his feelings, he probably pocketed them, like some timorous executive who dare not incur the responsibility of either signing or vetoing the bill. Had the proceedings of the meeting been favorable to the formation of a new County, ere this we should have seen them published, and its advocates exulting in their success. Will they publish them? I call upon those whose duty it is, to publish them to the world in accordance with the resolutions passed at the meeting.—But what is the real cause of the desire of the people of Waterford to have a new County? It must be some other than the one avowed,—that is, to diminish taxation. It is true, perhaps, that some of the townships have sent no persons to the County poor house; such is the case with Washington. But then we had poor to support before the establishment of the County poor house; but the dislike to the poor house, prevents people from making applications which they otherwise would were they supported by the townships. Therefore, I do not think that the taxes we have to pay for the support of the poor, is very little, if any greater than they would be if we had no poor house. The expenses incident to the organization, formation and conducting the affairs of a new County, must greatly enhance the taxes for years to come.—Then, in a pecuniary point of view, it behoves us to oppose the formation of a new County.

The several papers of Erie please copy the above.

WASHINGTON.

A LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21, 1851.

DEAR FRANK:—It is now better than two months since I wrote you, and yet I have been busy ever since getting to this point, where I arrived three days since. We were detained one month in Mazatlan waiting for transportation, during which time the coast fever got afoul of us, besides various other little misfortunes of no great interest to any one but your veracious correspondent, hence I would not allude to them only to show you, that for any thing commendatory of this route I have ever written, I have in my own person done full penance. On the 27th of Nov. we embarked on board the bark "New England," which, as her name imports, is a "Yankee ship," and she had a "Yankee crew." The skipper, a quaint old codger, was one of those persons who "had no malice in his heart, nor ruffles on his shirt." There were about 70 souls on board, principally Mexicans of the softer sex, which old "wooden-nutmegs" was taking to this place on speculation. This importing sweet-hearts is no joke here, but has been engaged in with regular mercantile avidity; the ventures yielding occasionally a fine profit.

We had scarcely passed the lower extremity of south California, (Cape St. Lucas,) when we encountered contrary winds, and were obliged to run out to the west as far as the 129th degree. The ship then run down on a north-east course, and we were congratulating ourselves on making a very smart passage to our port. Hope beat high in every heart—we should soon be rid of the cramped-up, dirty coop. But one day more and we would exchange the mouldy biscuit and the salt beef for the fresh cheer on shore. Ah; we fattened at least an inch in luxurious anticipation. But who, indeed, can tell what a day or an hour may bring forth. The wind shifted suddenly and blew a most terrific gale directly in our teeth, and lasted for ten days. During this time our provisions nearly gave out, as also did our wood and water.—We came near going ashore one foggy night—the passengers mutinied against our captain, and were on the point of superceding him in the command of the ship.

At length the wind did change, and then we cracked on every stitch of sail—cheerily we ploughed through the long rooling seas—merrily came the shout of "land ho!" and soon, passing through the lofty head lands that divide the harbor from the sea, we cast our anchor within the capacious harbor of San Francisco Bay.

"Then, oh, what rapture fills each breast
Of the hapless crew of the ship distressed
When landed safe what joy to tell,
Of all the dangers that befell."

And good reason too we had to feel grateful, for when the pilot come on board, the last bit of bread and meat was in the pot, and but forty gallons of brackish water left.

What shall I say more? The scenes about me are too extraordinary nature for even an allusion at this time. I'm intoxicated with the novelty before me. Of all the extravagant stories afloat, in regard to this fabled land, I'm convinced that not a lie has been told, even to the fellow with the $25,000 dish of beans. California is a fast—a very fast country, far ahead of the mail,—the telegraph can just come up to California time, and no more.

Just now extravagant tales come to us in relation to the success in the southern mines, or dry diggings, brought about by the recent rains. More anon. "OMEGO."

P. S.—Dec. 30th. I see by the morning papers, that our bark went ashore last night in a gale. O

Four Days Later From Europe.

HALIFAX, Feb. 1

The steamer Humbolt put into Halifax in distress.—She left Cowes on the 14th. Soon after her departure, she experienced a tremendous sea which unshipped her rudder, and she was steered with the greatest difficulty. She will sail for New York to-day, if possible. She has on board four days coal. Europe was generally quiet. Liverpool Cotton market buoyant. The supply of Flour and Corn continued limited, and holders were asking advanced rates. Several parcels of Indian Corn had changed hands, at an improvement of 6d per quarter.

ENGLAND.—The London Times announces that the next session of the Parliament will be opened on the 3d of Febuary, by the Queen in person, and that the present Cabinet, without any further modification, is resolved to face the difficulties of the session of 1852.

The Times, however, gives no hope that Lord John Russell's government will survive the session, but plainly hints that it will speedily fall before the accumulating difficulties and oppositions which it must experience.—All the overtures of the Russell Administration to the leaders of the Peel party for the formation of a coalition have been declined by the latter.

The Times recommends the modification of the Ministry, in a broad and liberal sense, as the only hope of the salvation of Lord John Russell; but there appears to be no chance of this advice being at present acted upon.

The London Daily times of the 12th instant, states, in reference to the Prometheus affair, that the British Government will express to the Cabinet of Washington, in frank and manly terms, their regret at what has occurred and testify in a marked manner their disapprobation of the aggressor's conduct. There is no doubt, therefore, that the matter will be amicably settled.

FRANCE.—The President of the French Republic has issued a decree dissolving the National Guards throughout France, but they are to be recognized when the government may deem it necessary for the maintainance of public order. In such a case the President will appoint the commander, colonels, and lieut. colonels.

It was daily expected that Louis Napoleon would declare himself Emperor, but it was felt that such a step would not add to the despotic power he at present exercises.

Large numbers of persons were being shipped off to the pestilent swamps of Cayenne.

Decrees have also been issued banishing Victor Hugo, Charras, and a great number of the Mountain party, from the territories of France.

The same decree ordered the removal of Generals Changarnier, Lamoriciere, Bedau, M. M. Thiers Girardin, and twelve others for a time from France and Algiers for reasons of public security. The Generals were released from the fortress of Ham and escorted to the frontiers. Arrests continue in all parts, and there was virtually "a reign of terror." The French funds have fallen considerably.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.

The mangled remains of young Leman, the Jew pedlar, were discovered last evening in the Delaware river, near Port Richmond. He had been missing since Jan. 8. The head had been cut off and concealed in some sacks, which were found by some children on the bank of the river. The sacks were frozen in the ice.

Andrew McBride, who recently murdered his brother in the same neighborhood, is supposed to have been also concerned in this horrid deed, in connection with his brother now dead, and another relative.

BOSTON, Jan. 31.

At the Democratic State Convention of Rhode Island, held yesterday, a resolution was adopted, declaring LEWIS CASS and WM O. BUTLER the choice of the Democrats of the State for President and Vice President, and the delegates instructed to go for them. Resolutions were offered, endorsing Dorrism and the Compromise measures, which were laid on the table.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.

Judge Roosevelt decided to day, that a Railroad Co. had no right to subscribe to the stock of another Co. without the consent of all the stockholders.

The Cherokee has arrived with 30 passengers, the California mails and $1,000,000 in gold.

The New Jersey Legislature has passed a series of joint resolutions endorsing the Compromise measures, including the Fugitive Slave law, without a dissenting voice.

In the Forrest Divorce case, the argument on the motion to enter a bill of exceptions, resulted in the Court granting a judgement of Divorce and an allowance of $3000 per annum from the commencement of the suit—payment on the voluntary yearly allowance of $1500, to be credited from that time.

Mrs. Forrest is to resign her right to Dower and Mr Forrest is to give satisfactory security for the payment of the $3000 a year, if he can, instead of its being a lien on his real estate.

The detailes of the Decree and of the Appeal, are to be settled next Saturday.

WASHINGTON, Feb 1

A rumer is current of another extensive fraud on the Government. The money abstracted, was under the immediate control of the State Department. Mr. Webster has made arrangements for the arrest of the guilty party, who escaped. The offender is said to be of little note.

NEW YORK Feb 2.

A man named Jonas Levey, has been arrested here by the U S Marshal, charged with maliciously carrying on a correspondence with the Mexican President, to the great damage of the U. S. Government. An indictment was found against him at Washington, and he has been taken back there. His offence had reference to meddling with the grant for the Tehuantipec Canal.

On Saturday evening, while a keg, containing $5000 Mexican dollars, was being hoisted on board the packet ship St. Nicholas, the keg burst and the contents fell into the dock, in 26 feet of water. Unsuccessful efforts have been made to recover the money.

The greater portion of the Hungarians here have found employment, and are now earning their living.

☞ USEFUL INVENTION.—In pulling large trains of cars, it has been found difficult many times to stir the trains after stopping, in consequence of the wheels slipping. Hence it has been necessary very frequently to throw sand on the track. This has been remedied by running a copper pipe immediately in front of the wheels through which the engineer can, at any moment he finds the wheels slipping, discharge a quantity of sand. This apparently trifling improvement will save an immensity of time and trouble.

EXTRA HAZARDOUS.—The new constitution of Ohio only authorises the issuing of licenses on two hazardous accounts—getting married and keeping gunpowder for sale.

☞ PRESIDENTIAL ASPECTS.—The editor of the Madisonian, a paper published at Madison Ia., writes home to Indiana from Washington how the Presidential signs look to him in that quarter. He says:

"Unless I have been most egregiously deceived, neither General Cass, Mr. Buchanan, or Senator Douglas, can begin to be nominated. I find that the friends of Gen Cass and Mr. Buchanan would prefer Gen. Lane's nomination, or Gen. Houston's or any other gentleman spoken of, to Judge Douglas' nomination."

☞ DEATH OF MR BIRNEY.—JAS G BIRNEY, Esq., Abolition candidate for President in 1841, died at his residence in Saginaw, Michigan, last week. Mr. Birney has acted a prominent part in the Liberty party of the United States. Though educated as a slave-holder, he emancipated his slaves, removed to a free State, and became a zealous advocate of emancipation.

RATHER TOUGH.—We find the following strange story in an exchange:

"EXTRAORDINARY CIRCUMSTANCE.—The Princeton (Ky.) Republican relates that, on the 27th ult., a negro woman, belonging to a gentleman of that county, got lost in the woods. She was not found until the 11th inst., and when found, was almost entirely embedded in snow and apparently dead. She was discovered by some boys who were hunting rabbits. Going home they informed two or three gentlemen of the fact, who went in search of the woman. They found her and supposed that she was dead. One of the party touched her with his cane, to see if decomposition had taken place, when to his astonishment she slightly moved her head. This led to further examination, and finally they roused the negro, who was in a short time after, the usual remedies having been resorted to, able to converse with them. She stated that she had eat nor drank nothing except snow since she left home, that she had seen no fire nor person, but had been out in the weather all the time. From the time she was lost until she was found was fourteen days. The weather had been very cold, and when she was found, the snow was on the ground eight inches deep. The negro is in a fair way for recovery, as every pains was taken with her. She will escape with the loss of one foot. The negro when lost was very fleshy, when found she was the most emaciated creature perhaps ever seen alive.

A HORRIBLE DEATH.—It is rumored that a shocking outrage was perpetrated in the vicinity of Chester, Pa., about two weeks since, which we believe has not yet been mentioned by the papers of that whereabouts. A poor tailor, who lived a short distance from Chester, was found dead, by the roadside early one morning, bearing upon his person the evidence of the most atrocious barbarities. The deceased according to the report, had formerly been intemperate in his habits; but having been reformed, was seldom seen about the taverns of Chester. On the evening in question, he came in town to measure a customer for a suit of clothes, and being met by some of his former boon-companions, they for a joke, enticed him into a tavern, where his good resolutions where soon forgotten; and, being liberally supplied with liquor, he was reduced to a maudlin state of intoxication.

His persecutors, not yet satisfied, shaved the poor fellow's head, applied Spanish flies and cowadge, and then taking his hat, which they had cut sufficient to see and breathe through, they pulled it completely over his face, and let him go to find his way home as best he might. As before stated, he perished during the night, from the treatment he had received, combined with exposure to the cold. Five young men, said to be of the highest respectability, are implicated in this transaction, which if our information is correct, can scarcely be exceeded for brutality. They have been arrested and held to bail to answer for the offence.—Phil. Ledger.

MRS. FORREST.—Or rather Mrs. Catherine Sinclair, is announced to appear this evening at Brougham's Lyceum, New York, in the character of "Lady Teazle," in the comedy of the "School for Scandal!" The Tribune of Friday, says:

It is stated that it is not the intention of Mrs. Forrest permanently to appropriate to her own use the income which she may receive from the estate of Mr. Forrest. It accords with her personal sentiments to rely on her own exertions for her support, and that of those dependent upon her, and to devote that money to the aid of those who are not able to support themselves. We understand that it is her intention to give a portion of it to the charitable fund of the Dramatic Association, and a portion to the benevolent institution of this city, known as "The Home."

It has been the impression with many persons, that the followers of Mr. Forrest would attempt to prevent the performance on Monday evening; but we were assured from good authority, yesterday, that Mr. F. has requested as a personal favor that no demonstration may be made on that occasion.—Had such a disgraceful attempt been made, however, it would scarcely have succeeded, although it might have caused unpleasant if not serious consequences.

HONOLULU AND ITS FASHIONABLES.—A late letter from Honolulu, Sandwich Islands, says:

Honolulu is a very pleasant place the climate beautiful, the country heavenly, and the fair sex lovely, notwithstanding one shade darker than the Americans. Their costumes are very picturesque, and the choice of colors is arranged with a great deal of taste, the head dress particularly so. They wear a very neat straw hat, ornamented with pretty ribbons and green veils: they ride on horseback, gentleman fashion. The men dress chiefly in European dresses: all the chiefs that I saw, dressed as we do. I perceive that the better class of native ladies dress like Europeans. We saw the Queen in church; she had on a black silk dress and a velvet mantlet over her shoulder, embroidered in black with a great deal of taste. She is a lady I should judge of about thirty five years of age, not pretty, but lady like in appearance. The King is not in town; the rest of the family are ashore. An American man-of-war is in the harbor, and another is hourly expected: none [illegible] to report.

INTERVENTION—WHO'S AFRAID!—They tell a good story of a scene that occurred at the Kentucky Democratic Convention last week. The heavy work having been done up during the day, the convention assembled in the evening to taper off by a "general discussion of things in general." General Pilcher introduced the resolutions of the New York Democracy in favor of the United States Government entering into a general crusade for the regulation of the world's affairs, but they were not received with any favor. The general, sneering at the danger that would attend such interference, exclaimed aloud, in his speech, "Who's afraid?" Mr. Sprigg, of Shelby, who stood directly in front of him, and who was in a condition for anything, exclaimed aloud, in reply, "I'm afraid!" "Who's afraid?" reiterated Pilcher. "I'm afraid," roared Sprigg. "What are you afraid of?" asked Pilcher; "I'm afraid of the elephant," said Sprigg. Of course the roar was tremendous.—Cincinnati Atlas.

SILVER MINE IN NEW-MEXICO.—We are informed that a dispatch has been received from an officer of the Army stationed in New Mexico, stating that an extensive and rich silver mine has been discovered on the public lands in the vicinity of Fort Fillmore, in that Territory. The main or chief vein is said to be over five inches in width at the surface, and is exposed from the summit of a mountain fifteen hundred feet high to its base, over a thousand yards in length. The eastern slope of the mountain has been explored, but there is no doubt that the vein passes entirely through it. An analysis of the ore has been made by a Mexican silver worker, who pronounces it very rich. Fort Fillmore is about twenty miles from El Paso.—National Intelligencer.

TEXAS.—The Governor of Texas closes his lat inauguration address as follows:

"It was not until Texas took her place as one of the States of the American Union that she occupied the position which nature designed for her.—From that period to the present, her onward march to power and improvement has been unexampled.—From every land emigrants are flocking to welcome crowds to partake of our prosperity. From the vine-clad hills of France and Germany, Ireland's green shores and England's smiling fields, and from our own sister States, they swell the living tide, until the solitary places have been made to rejoice and the wildernes to blossom as the rose.

TERRIBLE CATASTROPHE.—S. Lenerbier, a tailor, residing on Third, near Market street, was found yesterday afternoon, in his bed room, at the point o[f] death. His wife, and child about 18 months old, were lying dead at his side; a boy four years old and a journeyman in the employ of Lenerbier were also in a very critical condition. It appears that, from either carelessness in shutting off the gas at night, or from the bursting of a pipe, the house became filled with gas, and they inhaled it, which caused the melancholy result. Medical attendance was immediately sent for, and the survivors whose fate is very doubtful, were sent to the hospital.—St. Louis paper.

☞ HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Dr. Hoofland's celebrated German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, No. 120 Arch street Philadelphia. In cases of Liver complaint, Dyspepsia, Disease of the Kidneys, and all diseases arising from a disordered stomach their power is not excelled, if equalled, by any other known preparation, as the cures attest, in many cases, after the most celebrated physicians had failed. We can conscientiously recommend this medicine, as being what it is represented, and urge our readers who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and they will be convinced of the truth we assert.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP ASTHMA and CONSUMPTION.

Among the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life—increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, none can be named of more real value to mankind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art. A vast trial of its virtues throughout this broad country, has proven beyond a doubt that no medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and cure the numerous varieties of pulmonary disease which have hitherto swept from our midst thousands and thousands every year. Indeed there is now abundant reason to believe a remedy has at length been found which can be relied on to cure the most dangerous affections of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish any proportion of the cures effected by its use, but we would present the following opinions of eminent men, and refer further inquiry to the circular which the Agents below named, will always be pleased to furnish free, wherein are full particulars, and indisputable proof of these facts.

From the Professor of Amherst College, the Celebrated PROFESSOR HITCHCOCK.

"James C. Ayer—Sir: I have used your CHERRY PECTORAL in my own case of deep-seated Bronchitis, and am satisfied from its chemical constitution, that it is an admirable compound for the relief of laryngial and bronchial difficulties. If my opinion as to its superior character, can be of any service, you are at liberty to use it as you think proper.
EDWARD HITCHCOCK, L. L. D.

From the widely celebrated,

PROFESSOR SILLIMAN, M. D., L. L. D., PROFESSOR OF CHEMISTRY, MINERALOGY, &c., YALE COLLEGE, MEMBER OF THE LIT. HIST. MED. PHIL. AND SCIENTIFIC SOCIETIES OF AMERICA AND EUROPE.

"I deem the CHERRY PECTORAL an admirable composition from some of the best articles in the Materia Medica, and a very effective remedy for a class of diseases it is intended to cure."
New Haven, Ct., Nov. 1, 1849.

MAJOR PATTISON, President of the S. C. Senate, states he has used the CHERRY PECTORAL with wonderful success, to cure an inflammation of the lungs.

From one of the first Physicians in Maine.

Saco, Me., April 26, 1849.

Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell—Dear Sir: I am now constantly using your CHERRY PECTORAL in my practice, and prefer it to any other medicine for pulmonary complaints. From observation of many severe cases, I am convinced it will cure coughs, colds, and diseases of the lungs, that have put to defiance all other remedies.

I invariably recommend its use in cases of consumption, and consider it much the best remedy known for that disease.
Respectfully yours, I. S. CUSHMAN, M. D.

Prepared by J. C. Ayer, Practical Chemist Lowell, Mass. Sold in Erie by J. H. Burton & Co. in North East by B. C. Town & Co., in Girard by J. A. White; and by Druggists everywhere.

ERIE DAGUERREAN GALLERY,

Park Row, a few doors West of the REED HOUSE.

SHERMAN is happy to invite all who wish DAGUERREOTYPE LIKENESSES, who are at all particular what kind of pictures they have, to his new Rooms which have been built expressly for the Art. LIGHT is the great agent of the Artist, and it has been the constant study of all worthy of the name since the Art was discovered, to employ and control it in the manner best adapted to produce the most favorable results. The result of this study and of thousands of experiments is that there is not a respectable permanent Gallery in the U. States where the pictures are made by a common window, and he who says he can produce superior pictures by such a window proves his ignorance of the Art. The subscriber therefore begs leave to say that by his superior LIGHT, and with an apparatus worth six times any other in this city, he is enabled to produce pictures which cannot be equelled in this part of the country, and offers to excell any thing which can be produced in other rooms in Erie, or forfeit one hundred dollars. He has also a splendid Quick Working Camera, with which he takes children of any age. Let it be distinctly understood his pictures will not fade if properly kept.

N. B.—The "recent improvements" may be seen at the above rooms. W. H. SHERMAN.

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.

Falling of the Womb, Gonorrhea or Whites, Obstructed, Excessive, Irregular or painful Menses, Dropsy of the Womb.

Dr. La Croix (often called upon by young and innocent females who have had their health injured for years by pills and nostrums purchased from celebrated female impostors, under the false pretence of effecting cures—those medicines in [illegible] twenty have an injurious effect upon the constitution, without producing the desired effect, or any signs of it. Ladies who wish for medicines, the efficacy of which has been tested in thousands of cases, and never failed to effect speedy cures without any bad results, will use none but which are the result of the combined knowledge and experience of some of the oldest and most distinguished physicians of Europe, and have been used by females embracing most of the nobility and royalty of France for the last 25 years. To eulogise their virtues would not add to their merits. The only precaution necessary to be observed is, ladies should not take them if they have reason to believe that they are in certain situations (the particulars of which will be mentioned in the wrappers accompanying each box,) though always safe and healthy, so gently, yet so active are they.

Dr. De Laney's Female Periodical Pills,

☞ Price $1 per box. they can be transmitted by mail to any part of the Union.

Dr. La Croix invites all the afflicted, however hopeless their case may appear, or whatever their disease may be, or however many physicians or remedies they have tried, to put his knowledge and skill to the test in an examination of the case—it will cost them nothing. He promises to every case he treats a permanent and radical cure for life.

☞ The Dispensary is so arranged that the person so calling will see no one but the doctor himself, who is in constant attendance in his private rooms, ready and willing to render relief to all who may give him a call. Hundreds of certificates voluntarily given of cures, some of which are most astonishing cases on record, are for inspection at the Dispensary, all which are by his medicines.

That Ball is still Rolling.

WE are receiving daily, (by Kasson's dispatch line,) from H. Cadwell, who is now absent, and who will remain in the Cities of Boston, New York, and Philadelphia until the winding up of the fall trade, the greatest variety of the richest styles, and all kinds of Dress and Domestic Goods that were ever exhibited at one store in any city; and the prices, for cash, are too low to mention. Many of them will be sold at one half what it cost to make them. So much for the "great regulator," the Metropolitan Bank. However it's an ill wind that blows nobody good—what is the manufacturer's loss is the Farmer's gain. Now is the time to lay up much goods.

TAILORING.

GRAHAM & FERRIER would respectfully inform their friends and the public generally that they have rented the shop lately occupied by John Goalding in Reed's Block, opposite the Bonnell Block, State Street, where they will be found at all times ready to execute all orders entrusted to them with neatness and dispatch. The merits of Graham as a Cutter is too well known to require any puffing at this time, and they would only say that he will superintend that branch of the business. Ferrier although comparatively a stranger is well known to all who have employed him, to be a first rate workman. With these qualifications they hope to give entire satisfaction to those who may favor them with their work. they will pay particular attention to the cutting and making of all styles of Boy's garments, (a branch heretofore too much neglected by the trade in this city,) as they will be in the receipt of the monthly fashions from the East, they will be enabled to keep pace with every new mode of improvements as they come out. Naval and Military garments made to order.

☞ Cutting done with care for others to make up, and done when promised, at the usual prices.

CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS,

PREPARED BY

DR. C. M. JACKSON,

AT THE GERMAN MEDICINE STORE,

120, Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after [illegible] had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are withal, safe, certain and pleasant.

READ AND BE CONVINCED.

From the "Boston Bee."

The editor said, Dec. 22nd—

Dr. Hoofland's celebrated German Bitters for the cure of Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, is deservedly one of the most popular medicines of the day. These Bitters have been used by thousands, and a friend at our elbow says he has himself received an effectual and permanent cure of Liver Complaint from the use of this remedy. We are convinced that, in the use of these Bitters, the patient constantly gains strength and vigor—a fact worthy of great consideration. They are pleasant in taste and smell, and can be used by persons with the most delicate stomachs with safety, under any circumstances. We are speaking from experience, and to the afflicted we advise their use.

"Scott's Weekly," one of the best literary papers published, said, Aug. 25—

"Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Jackson, are now recommended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. As such is the case, we would advise all mothers to obtain a bottle, and thus save themselves much sickness. Persons of debilitated constitutions will find these Bitters advantageous to their health, as we know from experience the salutary effect they have upon weak systems."

MORE EVIDENCE.

The "Philadelphia Saturday Gazette," the best family newspaper in the United States, the editor says of

DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS;

"It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines, to the confidence and patronage of our readers; and therefore when we recommend Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, we wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostrums of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten after they have done their guilty race of mischief, but of a medicine long established, universally prized, and which has met the hearty approval of the faculty itself."

Evidence upon evidence has been received (like the foregoing) from all sections of the Union, the last three years, and the strongest testimony in its favor, is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular Physicians of Philadelphia, than all other nostrums combined, a fact that can easily be established, and fully proving that a scientific preparation will meet with their quiet approval when presented even in this form.

That this medicine will cure Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, no one can doubt after using it as directed. It acts specifically upon the stomach and liver; it is preferable to calomel in all bilious diseases—the effect is immediate. They can be administered to females, or infants, with safety and reliable benefit at any time.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

This medicine has attained that high character which is necessary for all medicines to attain to induce counterfeiters to put forth spurious articles at the risk of the lives of those who are innocently deceived.

Look well to the marks of the Genuine.

They have the written signature of C. M. JACKSON upon the wrapper, and his name blown in the bottle, without which they are spurious.

THE JEW'S HARP!

In Erie's fair City at the Store of the Jew,
Is kept everything cheap, pretty and new;
To be convinced what we say is really true
Give us a call, then you'll never say no.

Silks, figured, plain and Satin dechenes,
Alpaccas, Merinoes and Muslin de Lains,
Mulls, Cambrics and splendidly embroidered robes,
Wrought in figures the most beautiful, various in modes.

Lace Capes, Undersleeves, Belts, Collars and Cuffs,
Together with a large assortment of fancy stuffs,
A large and splendid lot of Bay State Shawls—
Ladies we're happy to receive all of your calls.

We have Dress Goods of all colors, blue, scarlet and brown,
As pretty and cheap as can be had in the town;
An assortment of Poplins, plain, changeable, watered and plaid.
Far prettier and cheaper than any where else in the city can be had.

We have a fine lot of Hosiery and gloves—again,
We have Lawns and Laces, both dotted and plain,
With Insertings and Edgings, Cambric, Cotton and Lisle, [Style.
Which cannot be excelled in beauty of patterns, cheapness and

We would also notice our importation of Wine, [Rine.
The pure juice of the grape, grown on the sunny banks of the Free from all drugs and poisonous dyes—
None can its excellence know until it he tries.

We would advise our friends of its excellence to partake,
Not merely as a beverage, but for the "stomach's sake,"
For which sake it is good and certainly can do you no harm,
In its purity consists its chief and great charm.

To make quick sales for small profits we certainly are willing,
Unlike our neighbors we wait not for big profits and the slow shilling.
The nimble sixpence principle is ours—by it we abide—
By it our goods we sell and let them slide.

Now I do not want this community to be taken by surprise,
Or to think I am trying to pull wool over their eyes;
Or that I am at all inclined to be funny,
In saying I sell goods very cheap for the money.

FIFTEEN YEARS of extensive and uninterrupted practice spent in this city, have rendered Dr. K. the most expert and successful practitioner [illegible] in the treatment of all diseases of a private nature [illegible] throat, [illegible] mercurial rheumatism, strictures, gravel, diseases arising from youthful excesses or impurities of the blood [illegible] the constitution has become enfeebled are all treated with success.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. K. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.—Young Men who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school—the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and destroy both mind and body, should apply immediately. Weakness and constitutional debility, loss of muscular energy, physical lassitude and general prostration [illegible] and all nervous affections, indigestion, sluggishness [illegible] and every [illegible] in any way connected with [illegible] [illegible] cured and full vigor restored.

READ! YOUTH AND MANHOOD.

A VIGOROUS LIFE OR PREMATURE DEATH. KINKELIN ON SELF-PRESERVATION.

ONLY 25 CENTS.

This Book just published is full of [illegible] information, on the infirmities and diseases of the generative organs. It addresses itself alike to Youth, Manhood, and Old Age, and should be read by all. The valuable advice and impressive warning it gives, will prevent years of misery and suffering, and save annually Thousands of Lives. Parents, by reading it, will learn how to prevent the destruction of their children.

☞ A remittance of 25 cents, enclosed in a letter, addressed to Dr. KINKELIN, N. W. Corner of Third and Union streets, between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, will ensure a book, under envelope, per return mail.

Persons at a distance may address Dr. K. by letter, enclosing a fee, and be cured at home.

ARRIVAL OF KOSSUTH.

THE arrival of this patriot in this country is likely to be attended with great enthusiasm and joyful greetings on the part of the American people, and why not? his has been a life devoted to his country, to the cause of liberty—to the elevation of his countrymen—therefore he cannot but be dear to the American people, alive to all that tends to elevate, to improve and to better. But the arrival of Kossuth cannot be more [illegible] with greater joy than can the arrival in this City of Singer's Patent, straight forward, perpendicular action Sewing Machine. This machine is destined to work miracles and cause a great revolution in the clothing business. This machine is the most important and useful invention of the age. It has been used a sufficient length of time to be thoroughly tested upon a great variety of work and in all cases is fully approved. It executes in the most perfect and satisfactory manner, the work of the following occupations, viz:—Tailors, boot, shoe and gaiter manufacturers, harness and saddle makers, shirt makers, Corset makers, Carriage trimmers, cap makers and hat binders, dress makers, stock manufacturers, glove makers, costumers, carpet bag manufacturers, truss makers, whip makers and upholsters. And may also be most profitably used in making sails and awnings, beds and mattresses, horse collars, oiled clothing, sacking, [illegible] and may [illegible] binding, and indeed for any other purpose where strong [illegible] has been required. This machine, which is about twelve inches square, and weighs 65 pounds, is cheap, [illegible] durable in all its parts, not liable to get out of order, and is easily adjusted and operated. It will perform [illegible] from five to ten persons, depending on the kind of work and skill of the operator. The best kind of Tailor's [illegible] executed with it in the best manner, and, in making caps and most other articles to which it is adapted, its work is far superior [illegible] done by hand. The Machine will be constantly on Exhibition and for sale at No. 2, Commercial Exchange, French street, where all persons interested are invited to call, and may be assured of receiving abundant evidence and perfect ocular demonstration of the great utility and value of this invention. Those wishing to purchase clothing, are hereby notified that I can sell them cheaper clothing, made in the most durable manner, and with five times as much stitching on as that manufactured by hand. A garment, which, in the ordinary way it would take a workman all day to stitch, can, by the help of the machine, be stitched in half an hour, and done in a manner far superior to that done by hand. Therefore, by the aid of this machine I am enabled to make better work, and at the same time cheaper work than those who manufacture clothing in the ordinary way. To be convinced [illegible] [illegible] skepticism, and the [illegible] four weeks and all sent on their way rejoicing that clothing can be manufactured so cheap, so durable and so beautiful, [illegible] Singer's Patent Sewing Machine. MOSES KOCH,

No. 2, Commercial Exchange, French street.

PETROLEUM.

A most remarkable case of Total Blindness cured by Petroleum

WE invite the attention of the afflicted and the public generally, to the certificate of Wm. Hall, of this city. The case may be seen by any person who may be sceptical, in relation to the facts here set forth. S. M. KIER.

"I had been afflicted for several years with a sore on both eyes, which continued to increase until September, 1850, the inflammation at that time having involved the whole lining membrane of both eyes, and ended in the deposit of thick film which wholly destroyed my sight. I had an operation performed, and the thickness removed, which soon returned and left me in as bad a condition as before. At this stage of the complaint I made application to several of the most eminent medical men, who informed me that 'my eyes would never get well.' At this time I could not distinguish any object. By the advice of some friends I commenced the use of the Petroleum, both internally and locally, under which my eyes have improved daily until the present time, and I have recovered my sight entirely. My general health was very much improved by the Petroleum, and I attribute the restoration of my sight to its use. I reside at No. 102, Second st., in this city, and will be happy to give any information in relation to my case. WILLIAM HALL."
